Many do not drink temperately and the result is they get drunk and the "cop" gets them. A gentleman from Catlettsburg told the writer that for the three weeks preceding Christmas more than $100,000's worth of booze was shipped out of his town each week, and that the amount drunk there and earried away in jugs and bottles could hardly be estimated. The existing conditions work a hardship for both the "wet" town and the prohibition State. The former gets more than her share of drinking and the latter is precluded from enforcing prohibition.
